Local Girl Escapes Injury in Train Wreck at Southesk

Miss Elaine Ramm of Didsbury was in the train wreck which occurred at Southesk, 16 miles northwest of Brooks, just before 7 a.m. on Thursday, December 29th, when a late-running east-bound baggage-express train of the C.P.R. ripped into two day coaches of the westbound No. 3 passenger train and careened off the right-of-way onto its side. Elaine suffered only minor bruises and returned home to Didsbury on Saturday.

While three persons died in the accident and 67 others were injured, some seriously, Miss Ramm was among the fortunate ones, and according to the Calgary Alberta she gave the following interview after the accident:

"I was asleep, sound asleep. A mother and little six-month-old baby were beside me on the train. It was about four or five when I got on the train. I looked at my watch after the wreck and it was about 7 a.m. I guess a suitcase must have hit me on the head," Elaine added, rubbing a large sized bruise on her forehead.

When the train crew brought along flares it had helped considerably because everything was in darkness then. A honeymooner, John Tylandsvick, had asked people not to get excited, and then then continued to break out some of the windows and toss out suitcases. Two people, at least, in the coach, couldn't understand English, which added to the confusion. One of them, a woman, kept screaming to her husband at

SUCH WAS LIFE

The winter of 1906-7 is considered one of the extremely cold winters by those who found it necessary to be out on the road. Such east winds were more frequent and that with fifteen to twenty below zero made a combination that everyone dreads to be out in. Rather a quiet forty below day.

About thirty thousand feet of lumber was scheduled to be hauled from the Fallen Timber Creek before the ice broke up, barring possible chinooks. It meant being out, whether or not weather, as it was now after New Year's.

It was a two-day trip, the homecoming trip was from 6 a.m. in the morning till 8 p.m. at night with an hour off to feed at noon, plus frequent stops up grades from the Little Red Deer and Dog Pound rivers.

From the Dog Pound on the road was turmpiked and had a crown enough to slide you into the ditch with a load of long timbers if you got to one side. The bush trail was rough with many turns and narrow enough to hang you up.

It so happened that I was forced to face a condition with the above wind and temperature. The lead team, newly broken and bronchos, would not face the wind. It was necessary to have their assistance up hills and on long grades. I had to stay put on the load—no walking periodically. The last ten miles were painful to torturing. Even deep breathing failed to respond to any degree of satisfaction. To leave the load on the road side was dangerous as it was dark. To leave the corner of the road was heading for the ditch to stay there.

Finally as I approached my buildings I saw a light from the house come towards me. I remember saying "Whoa," and the repeated calls from the girl with the light that aroused me to danger. I was all in and it took about twenty minutes to unhitch, being only semi-conscious.

After getting into the stable and the teams unharnessed, I felt a million needles, as it were, torturing me into circulation.

Had it not been for the girl and her light I would have slept from there on, as I had collapsed into a coma from the cold winds.

To me it is a wonder that more people were not frozen in the days of lone travelling when unexpected conditions arose that could not be surmounted.

The slogan, "A real pioneer is never licked," has its limits, but in many instances it was a real inspiration that helped to overcome the many handicaps in the pioneer days.

Volume 48, Number 1

With this issue of The Didsbury Pioneer we commence the forty-eighth year of publication and our title line carries "Volume 48, number 1", which means the first issue in the 48th year of publication.

This is a long time in the history of newspapers in Alberta and The Didsbury Pioneer is one of the oldest in the province for continuous publication, and under the same title. Unfortunately the complete files of the paper were lost in a recent fire, but happily we have a copy of the first issue of the paper, which was preserved by Mr. A.G. Studer, and it is now safe from fire and water.

With the passing of time the local paper has progressed with the town and despite serious setbacks today carries more local news than at any time in its history. This is due mainly to the consistent efforts of our numerous country correspondents, press correspondents of various organizations, and others who send in news items from time to time. This news is not only appreciated by the publisher, but by the subscribers who now number more than 1,000 weekly, and the readers who possibly number around 4,000 each week.

With the beginning of a new year we wish to take this opportunity to thank our many contributors, advertisers and subscribers for their faithfulness and loyalty during the past twelve months and in the publisher, but by the subscribers we can only hope to give more efficient service to the reading public.

Community Art Club Plans Social Evening

The Didsbury Art Club is sponsoring a social evening on Sunday evening, January 8, at 8 p.m.

Four films have been procured and will be shown in the high school by Mr. E. T. Wiggins. The films are: "Out of a Chinese Paint Brush", "Drawing With a Pencil", "Brush Technique" and "The Brush in Action".

These films culminate the work secured in the fall term, and it is hoped that they will stimulate the potential and active members.

The "Spring Term" begins Monday, January 9th, and will include instruction until the end of March. Technique of all painting will be shown but work on any media will be encouraged.

The rate has been reduced and new members will find it beneficial, as well as enjoyable, as they advance in this new hobby.

The Didsbury Art Club meets every Monday night in the Home Ec. room of the High School.

Fire Destroys Weidner Barn Near Westcott

We are indeed sorry to hear of Mr. and Mrs. W. Weidner's loss on Sunday morning, New Year's Day, when their barn was completely destroyed by fire at 11 a.m.

The stock was saved, but all the hogs, as well as some of the horses, were lost. Neighbors and friends braved very cold weather to come out and help but the fire had too much of a head start. The cause of the fire, Mrs. Edna Dowell, Mr. Fred Metz and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Milne from east of Didsbury, and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Goetjen from west of Didsbury, and family of Sundre were dinner guests last Tuesday at the H. Goetjen home.

sympathy is extended to Mrs. Lena Sanderson in the passing of her step-father, H. Bradley of Didsbury, last Thursday.

Councilor H. J. Goetjen received word Friday of the death of his brother, Rudolph, of Chilliwack, B.C., is seriously ill, having suffered a stroke on New Year's Day. He left Tuesday evening for his brother's hospital at Carstairs, to be at their father's bedside.

Our hockey team took a real trimming at Crossfield recently and are a bit hesitant to tell the score. Oh, well, the festive season is now over so you boys will show them yet.

Mr. Donald Folkman of Red Deer spent the holiday at home here, as did Jean Dugford, who attends college in Edmonton.

Miss Deloye Goetjen returned Monday evening to Calgary to resume her studies after spending the holidays in Didsbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Goetjen and family and Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Goetjen and family were visitors at the Herbert Goetjen home on New Year's Day.

Dr. C. T. McNichol of Edmonton, has taken over the dental practice in Didsbury of Dr. J.W. Summers, and the new dentist is now operating at the same location.

Dr. McNichol's home is in High River, where his late father was a dentist for many years, and he comes well recommended for the practice of his profession.

The new dentist has also purchased the residence formerly occupied by Dr. and Mrs. Summers and family, and Dr. McNichol is to be married shortly, when he and his bride will take up residence in Didsbury.

Dr. Summers came to Didsbury in 1912 and has practiced dentistry here ever since. Together with his family he leaves this week for his home, but future plans are unsettled. However, Dr. Summers wishes to convey his thanks to the community for many courtesies shown during his stay here.

Didsbury Ramblers Lose First Encounter With Drumheller

Drumheller, December 28—The Drumheller Miners, uncovering a wider passing and freer skating game here last night, outscored the Didsbury Ramblers 10-3 in a South Central Alberta Hockey League fixture.

Less than 200 fans braved the sub zero weather to watch the clubs in their first meeting of the season. Both teams went all-out in a game that had more than the normal quota of action.

Big Rex North opened the scoring for the Miners just past the halfway mark in the first period on a pass from Johnny McLeellan.

Within two minutes, McLeellan made no mistake on Popovich's pass as he moved right in on the Didsbury goalie Lee Brooke, Charlie Collins, who has been coaching the Miners since the opening of the season here, teamed with Ragon and Legie Berlando to complete a trio backed with worry for the Ramblers throughout the game.

North garnered his second goal of the evening for the Miners on an assist from Smith, while Collins broke into the scoring column unassisted a few minutes after the start of the second period.

Seinfeld took a pass from Witke.

HAVE WE REACHED THE HALF-WAY MARK?

The year 1950 is here and whether we have reached the half-way mark of the century, or whether we have another year to go, is a question that has long been a subject for controversy. Some say that the year 1900 was the start of a new century, and if so we have now completed 50 years in the 1900's. Others say that the year 1900 was the end of the nineteenth century and thus the year 1901 was the first year of the twentieth century. If this is true we must complete this year of 1950 before we have passed the half-way mark of the century. The matter is really quite confusing, but after all, it makes little difference as far as time is concerned. The years come and go, and no doubt will continue to come and go long after we have departed.

We do know, however, that writers of the past claimed that the nineteenth century belonged to the United States of America, but that the twentieth century would be Canada's. So far this prediction has been partially true, since our population has quadrupled, our trade increased many times, and our fair country deemed the richest per capita in the world. We still have another 49 or 50 years to go in this twentieth century before our claim to greatness can be completely established, but from all indications we are on the right track.

While we think in terms of greatness over the whole Dominion of Canada one may also pause to look into Alberta's future. After all, Canada cannot be great unless all or most of the Provinces are great, and when it comes to possibilities Alberta is in the fortunate position of having the best opportunity at the present time of making the greatest stride in the shortest time. The reason is "oil" which is being found in many parts of the province, and will no doubt be found in greater quantities within the next few years. Just what progress will result from this one commodity alone in the next 49 or 50 years is uncertain, but the certain part is that it will be tremendous beyond our present ability to visualize the results.

Locally the first half of the century has been a time when the community has grown from a few houses
to a modern town, and from present indications the next 49 or 50 years will see our fair community develop beyond the wildest dreams of the early immigrants.

Time does not stand still. The world must make progress and the nations, provinces, cities and towns must make progress if we are to survive. Whether we go ahead or back depends largely on the individual,
who in turn contributes something to his community, and his community to his province, and so on. If we
as individuals can contribute something to our community and will continue to do so, we can look forward to the new year and the years to come with eagerness
and excitement, with happiness and prosperity.
